John Paul Jones, the Cornell student who broke the world's amateur record for the mile at the Intercollegiate track meet, says that he has run his last race and that with the completion of his college course he has quit athletics for good. Many who are interested in the sport will experience regret that the great runner was not able to equal the best figures for the mile by either amateur or professional, but all sensible persons will commend the young man's determination to eliminate running from his daily life in the future and to devote all his energies to the more serious affairs of life.

Some day the public conscience in this country is going to awake to the necessity of regulating the sale and use of revolvers. The shocking accident this week at Rutland, where a thirteen-year-old lad sent a bullet into the head of his grandmother, is one more argument to prove that some restrictive measures governing the distribution of small fire-arms is needed. To the average man a revolver is not of much use, anyhow. The weapon is manufactured and sold for the purpose of killing human beings and the magazines are full of advertisements vividly depicting its value as a protector of the home and lonely women, but out of a hundred deaths caused by pistol bullets in not over one instance is the right man sent to his grave. New York city is said to average one killing a day, but how often is the dead man a burglar caught in the act of entering a dwelling?

"Heenan" Bowers of Montpelier, a confirmed dipsomaniac, was recently sent to the state asylum at Waterbury for treatment in accordance with the provisions of a law enacted at a recent session of the legislature. The man has a record of 42 convictions for intoxication and is supposed to be the "title holder" in Vermont. If the system of disposing of offences of intoxication that has been in use in this state for years was created with the purpose of correcting the evil, it is perhaps pertinent to ask what has it accomplished in the case of Bowers? The treatment has been used in his case nearly half a hundred times and there has been no improvement in the condition of the patient. There was a proposal before the last legislature to establish a detention farm for confirmed victims of alcohol. While not enacted into a law it was given serious consideration and there is good reason to believe that the idea will eventually be carried out in this state.

Castle Garden.
Castle Garden was built by the United States in 1807 from the plans of Lieutenant Colonel Jonathan Williams, O. E., and was called Fort Clinton. In 1822 it was ceded to New York city. In 1824 it became a place of amusement and about 1830 got the name of Castle Garden. In 1845 there were Ethiopian minstrels there, in 1847-9 theatrical companies played there, and in 1850 Jenny Lind sang there. In 1855 it was closed as a place of amusement, and the commissioners of immigration took it as an immigrant depot. In 1870 it suffered from fire, and on July 9, 1870, it was burned to the ground. It was rebuilt at once. In 1892 the depot was moved to Ellis Island, and Castle Garden reverted to the city, which in 1896 opened an aquarium there.

When Father Sings.
Little Mildred lives on the Kansas side and is four years old. She has a good voice and likes to sing. Her father has a very poor voice and wouldn't carry a tune on his shoulders. He is aware of his failing. So is Mildred. Whenever he starts to sing the rasping noise grates on her music loving ears, and whenever Mildred is naughty father threatens her thus: "Mildred, if you don't behave papa will sing." Mildred immediately turns up her nose, puts her hands behind her back and walks away. But she always behaves.—Kansas City Star.

Pretty Busy.
"Is he making good?"
"He must be. He never seems to have time to stop and tell anybody about it."—Detroit Free Press.

To be of service is a solid foundation for contentment in this world.—Charles W. Eliot.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; plus cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give one hundred dollars for any case of Deafness cured by our method, guaranteed. Send for our circular, and we will give you a full and complete description of our method, and we will give you a full and complete description of our method, and we will give you a full and complete description of our method.

"In the Arctic regions, through weary days in camp at Spitzbergen, or sailing 1,000 miles over the Atlantic in the airship America, my favorite tobacco has always been Tuxedo."
Walter Wellman

GARRETT P. SERVISS
Garrett P. Serviss, prominent scientist and writer, author of "The Second Degree," etc., says:
"I have tried many brands of tobacco, good, bad and indifferent, before alighting upon Tuxedo, the ideal smoke."
Garrett P. Serviss

JOHN J. MCGRAW
John J. McGraw, famous manager of the New York Giants, and champion of the National League, says:
"Tuxedo goes to my pipe smoking a ke enjoyment that I have experienced with no other tobacco. Supreme in mildness and fragrance is Tuxedo."
John J. McGraw

HENRY REUTERDAHL
Henry Reuterdaahl, famous naval artist, and expert on naval construction, says:
"You've got to smoke while painting out of doors in winter—it helps you to keep warm. And a pipeful of pure, mild Tuxedo tobacco makes one forget the cold, and the paint flows more freely."
H Reuterdaahl
